

YOUNG MAN STOLE TWENTY DOLLARS

Took Bill Book Containing Money From Orville Gorbet's Coat Pocket.

THIEF CAUGHT AT COLUMBUS

When He Reached There On Traction Car.—Bound Over to Court.

Albert Schott, a young man from Cincinnati, Monday evening in this city in a very short time managed to get into trouble which will probably require a long time to get out of. Early in the evening in the Gorbet restaurant on Jeffersonville avenue he stole $20 from Orville Gorbet and a few hours later was in jail, a confessed thief. Between 6 and 7 o'clock young Gorbet was in the restaurant and in preparation for supper took off his coat to wash; he hung the coat, in the pocket of which was a bill book containing papers and $20 in paper money, on the wall over a map. Schott, who was the only other person in the restaurant at the time, was talking to Gorbet and saw the bill book as Gorbet took off his coat. Schott wandered over to the wall and pushed aside the coat as he pretended to look at the map and at the owner's suggestion finally took the garment down and laid it on a table. Later while Gorbet was at supper Schott bought a sandwich and sat down at the table on which the coat was lying. After finishing his lunch Schott left the room and a short time later Gorbet in putting on his coat discovered his loss. He at once suspected the stranger and notified the police. It was learned that a person answering Schott's description had boarded the 7 o'clock north bound interurban. A telephone message was sent to the Columbus police and they took the young man into custody when he alighted from the car in that city. He had a roll of small bills which corresponded to the ones taken from Gorbet's pocket. Only the price of the car fare from Seymour to Columbus was missing. Schott a little later acknowledged his guilt and told of throwing the pocketbook from the car north of Seymour. It was afterward found. Schott said that he had but a small amount of change when he visited the restaurant and that the temptation to take the pocketbook was too great for him to resist. He is twenty years of age, well dressed and of generally good appearance. He said he had never had any serious trouble before and claimed to have been arrested but once previous to last night and that was for loitering in Indianapolis. His grandparents and brother and sister live in that city. His mother he said died while he was a small boy and he made his home in Cincinnati with his father who he says in a prominent veterinary surgeon. The young man was arranged this morning in police court and, waiving a preliminary, was bound over to circuit court under $200 bond on a charge of petit larceny. The father was notified and it is expected will come from Cincinnati tonight to do what he can for his son. The latter was taken to the Brownstown jail this morning. Schott had been around Seymour since Sunday.

Burrell Coming.

Word was received here this afternoon that a message had been received from Oklahoma that Burrell is to be brought back to Brownstown.

YOUNG CHILD

Found Dead In Bed Early This Morning.

A two weeks old child of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brooks, four miles east of Seymour, was found dead in bed this morning. Mrs. Brooks was up with the child at 4 o'clock this morning and it was alright then. At six o'clock Mr. Brooks went to the bed to take the child up and found it was dead. Coroner Dowden was called there this afternoon to hold an inquest.

DIED

WARNER—Margaret, the 7 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Warner of East High street, died suddenly Tuesday morning about 7:30 o'clock. The child had been quite sick with pneumonia fever, but was better and was laughing at her little sister this morning when she suddenly expired. The funeral services will be held some time Thursday. Mrs. Warner is seriously ill with pneumonia fever.

Notice!

Thursday evening, February 15, Mr. Arthur J. Berialut, of Indianapolis, will make his first appearance in a series of dramatic readings at the First M. E. Church, under the auspices of the Young Men's Class. These entertainments will be both instructive and amusing as Mr. Berialut comes highly recommended. f14d

SHOP MEETINGS ARE PLANNED

In Connection With the Revival Meetings Being Held at the German Methodist Church.

THREE EVANGELISTS ARE HERE

Will Hold Afternoon and Evening Meetings at Church and Noon Meetings at Factories.

The three evangelists who are assisting in the meetings at the German M. E. Church began their work Monday. These ministers are Rev. W. Brueckner, Mt. Vernon, Ind., Rev. E. Werner, Huntington, Ind., Rev. L. H. F. Ackerman, Jeffersonville, Ind. Under the direction of the pastor, Rev. H. Knauff, the plan is that Rev. Mr. Brueckner will preach at the church each evening at 7:30; Rev. Mr. Werner will hold shop meetings at noon each day at the various factories in the city; and Rev. Mr. Ackerman will conduct the afternoon meetings at the church at 2:30 o'clock each day. Monday evening Rev. Mr. Brueckner preached from the subject of "Moses' Choice." Two courses lay open to Moses; one course offered power, wealth and pleasure as the son of Pharaoh's daughter at the court of Egypt; the other course offered affliction, exile and poverty with the people of God as their chosen leader; one side offered worldly fame for a season; the other side offered temporal suffering but a power and fame that were everlasting. Everyone must choose the path they will take. There is no middle ground. We must either decide for God, or decide for the evil. God lays the choice on every heart and everyone must make his own decision. The speaker urged the men and women to think and to think seriously about this choice. We must suffer the reproach of Christ in order to have God's purpose realized in our lives.

At noon today a shop meeting was held at the Woolen Mill addressed by Rev. Mr. Werner and tomorrow a shop meeting will be held at noon at the Greeman factory. These meetings have proved very helpful in other cities and towns, and the purpose is to carry the gospel message to others who do not come to the church to hear it.

The afternoon meetings this afternoon and tomorrow and for the remainder of the week will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Ackerman.

There was a good attendance at the meeting last evening and excellent attention. Everyone is invited to attend these services and to hear the gospel story faithfully presented.

A Lincoln Evening.

Reminiscences of the life, work and character of Abraham Lincoln furnished a very interesting program given by the members of Mrs. O. S. Guernsey's Sunday School class Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Miller on West Second street. Light refreshments were served and the evening was pleasantly spent. The class will look forward with much pleasure to the monthly meetings.

HADLEY & CO. ARE OUT OF BUSINESS

Sold Monday Evening To Seymour Poultry Company.—Latter In Possession.

F. H. HADLEY TO LEAVE CITY

Z. E. Hadley Has Invested In Southern Land.—Plans of New Proprietors.

After being engaged in the poultry business in Seymour the greater part of the time for years, F. H. Hadley has retired from the field. Hadley & Co. of which firm he was a member and for which he was manager, Tuesday afternoon sold their business to The Seymour Poultry Company and the latter took possession this morning.

It had been known to some persons in the city for several days that the deal was on and there had been various reports in circulation. It was not until late Tuesday that the details were closed which resulted in the transfer of the business. The decision to dispose of the business was largely due to the retirement of Z. E. Hadley who several months ago bought a large farm in the south and moved there for the benefit of his son's health. He desired to withdraw his investment here for use in his new venture. He became interested in the local concern last year following the failure of the Hadley Poultry Company which was due to the sensational collapse in the egg market of the country. The new firm had been doing a good business but it had increased until the capital available was not sufficient to handle it and the retirement of Z. E. Hadley had made a sale advisable. The firm, with many other like concerns in the country, suffered some losses last week following the sharp decline in egg prices but they were not of a serious character and all outstanding bills will be paid at the office. F. H. Hadley has not yet announced his business plans for the future. He has some plans in view and expects that his business will take him away from Seymour. His family however will remain here for the present though it is expected they will move from Seymour before the beginning of the next school year. The Seymour Poultry Company which takes over the Hadley business has leased the building which has been occupied by the retiring concern and will have its headquarters there. Being located in the city and on the Pennsylvania line the building is more accessible to the trade generally and more convenient for shipments than the building owned and occupied for the past few months by the Seymour Poultry Company. The latter building is located just outside of the city limits south of West Second street. The firm before the fire was located on west Tipton street. After the fire when the agitation by the city council threatened to compel the removal of all poultry houses to points outside the city limits the company bought land and built west of the city. This building will probably be used as a ware house. E. B. Bryan and W. O. Shepard, who constitute the firm, have been in the poultry business for themselves since the summer of 1910. They understand the business thoroughly, have shown that they are safe and conservative business men, are clever and accommodating in their dealings and have made a success. With their increased opportunities and improved facilities for handling business their success will doubtless be greater than it has been.

There was a large and enthusiastic gathering of Indiana Republicans at the Lincoln League meeting Monday and banquet that evening at New Castle. Charles W. Fairbanks, Harry S. New, Fred Sims and other prominent leaders spoke.

JUDGE JACKSON PRESIDENT Of the Lincoln League.—Resolutions Adopted Monday.

In the election of officers Judge Ed Jackson of New Castle, well known in Seymour and vicinity, was promoted from secretary to the presidency of the League. The other officers are: A. E. Jones of Crown Point, vice president; W. H. Adams of Wabash, secretary; William Bosson of Indianapolis, treasurer.

The resolutions adopted, in part were: We, the Indiana Lincoln League of Republican Clubs, in convention assembled, avail ourselves of this opportunity to congratulate the country at large upon the prosperity and good times generally prevailing, and in review of the stirring events of the last half century we note with sincere satisfaction the evidence of progress in all of the useful arts and sciences, the advance of our country to a position of commanding influence among the civilized governments of the world and unequaled by any in material prosperity, and we do not forget the fact that these things were accomplished through the wise control and patriotic devotion of Republican administrations, national and state.

It is, therefore, with renewed faith in the righteousness of Republican principles and policies, and in the firm belief the Republican control of governmental affairs assures the largest possible measure of prosperity to all classes of citizens, that we pledge our best efforts in support of the platform and candidates of the party; That, in William H. Taft, the country is to be congratulated on having as its chief executive a man fully equipped by natural endowment, self acquisition and experience to conceive, the courage to dare and the force to execute.

The frankness and candor of the President in dealing with important and public questions inspire our confidence in his honesty of purpose and the earnestness of his desire to know well and to perform his whole duty. Confident in the belief that the administration of President Taft will mark the era of our greatest prosperity and largest measure of material advancement, we heartily indorse his acts and attitude upon questions affecting the public welfare. Recognizing, as we do, that every national administration must necessarily and constantly deal with the tariff problem, it is a source of special gratification to note the President's frank, unequivocal and positive position respecting the new tariff law providing for the tariff board, by whose appointment the President avails himself of the opportunity to procure actual facts in place of academic theories regarding the tariff. We note with pleasure his determination to use this board as a medium of discovering the

THIS CITY WAS ONCE HER HOME

Mrs. Jane Standfield of Topeka, Kan., Celebrated Her 100th Birthday.

SHE IS STRONG AND ACTIVE

Saw The First Train Pull Into Seymour.—Remembers Exciting Occasion.

The Republican is indebted to Mrs. O. K. Swayzee, of Topeka, Kas., for the following interesting sketch clipped from a recent issue of the State Journal of that city. Mrs. Swayzee was formerly Miss Hettie McPherson of Brownstown, and is a sister of Mrs. Alpha Cox of this city. Mrs. Standfield, the subject of the sketch, was once a resident of Seymour. A large picture of her appeared in The Journal. The latter said:

Mrs. Jane Standfield, mother of W. J. Baldwin, is celebrating her 100th birthday anniversary today at the home of her son at 724 Lawrence street. Mrs. Standfield was born near Covington, Ky., December 21, 1811, and moved to Topeka in 1871, where she has made her home ever since, excepting about two years which she spent in California.

Apparently in good health and her faculties not impaired on account of her age, Mrs. Standfield does not appear to be more than 80 years of age. She has an excellent memory, reads without glasses and walks with a brisk step. She arises every morning between 5:30 and 6 o'clock, dresses herself without assistance, combs her own hair, and, in fact, does not require assistance of any kind.

She is not affected by the ills which usually accompany old age. Her hearing is slightly affected at times. This is caused from an injury received in a fall a number of years ago, in which one side of her head was bruised. But under normal conditions this does not prevail.

Mrs. Standfield was the oldest of a family of nine children. She had four brothers and four sisters, but she is the only one of the entire family who is living. She was born at a point 19 miles north of Covington, Ky., which is now called Maysville. Her father's name was Benjamin Wilson and her mother's name was Clarissa Hall.

In the year of 1812, when she was but a year old, her father enlisted in the army as a surgeon and chaplain. He served in the army until after the close of hostilities and then returned home. Following this her father and family moved to Chillicothe, O., where he worked as a carpenter and helped build up the town. They then returned to their former home and remained there until they moved to Topeka and arrived here October 4, 1872. After living here a number of years she moved to Lyndon, where she lived two years, and then returned to Topeka.

She was married to Levi Baldwin December 1, 1828, at Chillicothe, and seven children were born to this union. Mr. Baldwin died in 1841, and she was married to George Standfield Octo-

Excuses

"And they all began to make excuse," will be the subject of Evangelist Watkin's tonight. Everybody is invited to hear the gospel earnestly presented at 7:30 this evening.

Monday evening another large congregation heard the gospel preached and at the close one confession was made. "Baptism" was the subject of the sermon. Regeneration before church membership was emphasized as the foundation principle on which the Baptist denomination stands, and baptism by immersion as taught in the New Testament, is the symbol given by the believer to the world that he has been born again. Baptism symbolizes the death and burial of the man of sin, and the resurrection of the new regenerated man to walk in the new life given through the pardon which Jesus' sacrifice obtained for every man, woman and child who will accept it.

At the close of the Wednesday night service there will be a congregational meeting at which every member of the church is asked to be present.

Come tonight and hear the Gospel preached by Evangelist Watkins and hear the Gospel sung by the big chorus choir.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

POWER.

Be patient.
If you are patient you will have but little competition, because so few persons practice that virtue. You almost may have a monopoly.
Be self-poised.
You will have but little rivalry here also, because so many persons get off their balance. You almost could form a trust of the well balanced, rightly poised. And—
If you have both poise and patience you will have what every one is looking for—
Power.
If you are patient and poised you will be generous and kind to all, to the deserving and wise as well as to the undeserving and foolish.
You cannot be kind and patient to all men unless you are self forgetful, unselfish. If you are self forgetful and generous you will be both patient and kind.
See how the circle goes?
Now, there is this about power—it goes to him who can properly use it. And the greatest power in all the universe is love, and he who is poised and patient and kind will have that tremendous power.
How to get it?
Are you to struggle and strain after it, grasp for it? If you do that you will be doing what so many are doing, and you will have competition. And if you strain and strive you are likely to lose both poise and patience.
Again it is the circle.
How then?
Think only goodness and all good things will come to you and radiate from you. You will be a center of love and kindness. You will be the natural expression of kindness and goodness.

And—
If that be true you will not need to rush hither and yon in order to find a chance to do good. It will be all about you. Think goodness and you will practice it. Think goodness—kindness and helpfulness will finally become the fixed habits of your life.

And evil?
You will have no use for it. So far as you are concerned evil will not exist. Evil is negation. It will be merged into the affirmative, powerful good.

Fret not yourself. Think only good thoughts.

Think good thoughts and you will have power in your life. Power is abundant life. And patience and poise are its ministers.

AND THIS IS WOMAN

The female sex doth ever shun what most it seeks.

Every woman's mirror is her best and bravest friend.

Time is the call-boy of the soul, who comes to warn us for our final scene.

To be a woman meaneth flower, star queen—and more, much more besides.

To say that conscience hath a still small voice, but of 'tis wondrous sweet.

Flout truth now, but beware the time when thou shalt seek flattery in thy mirror and find only truth.

Time hath summoned all manner of actors to enact strange scenes on the stage of life and rung down many tragic curtains.

Love—the king of kings, the soul's sweet starlight, the strength of the weak, the salvation of the doomed, the God of Everywoman.

If a woman fall—if one false step leads down the path to perdition, her youth and beauty dead—oh, who will lend a kindly hand to lead her back again? In the whole world there is no hope for such a one.—From the Morality Play, "Everywoman."

SIR EDWARD GREY

The British Foreign Secretary
Receives Distinguished Honor.

London, Feb. 13.—The Gazette announces that Sir Edward Grey, minister of foreign affairs, has been made a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter. The announcement created general surprise, as Sir Edward is the first commoner to be a member of the order since Horace Walpole was appointed in 1726, and the first ever created when no vacancy in the membership existed.

SERVING WARRANTS IN DYNAMITE CASE

Government's Drag Net Is Closing In Today.

Indianapolis, Feb. 13.—It is not denied at the federal building that all the defendants in the dynamiting cases whose arrests are expected today are not members of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. It is said that at least two members of other unions have been indicted, but what unions they are or how many of them were caught in the government net cannot be learned. At least one of the unions which is said to have been strong against the policy of helping the iron workers, is said to be one which will receive a surprise when the indictments become public. One of its well-known workers, who has traveled extensively in various parts of the country, is believed to have been named in the grand jury indictments as a defendant. While it is expected that in a few instances local labor leaders affiliated with other unions than the iron workers will be arrested, the list of prominent members of other unions said to be indicted is confined to two or three, so far as can be learned.

Will Defend Suspects.

Indianapolis, Feb. 13.—Alton B. Parker, former chief justice of the New York court of appeal and Democratic presidential candidate in 1904, has been retained to defend the labor leaders indicted in the dynamite investigation. Judge Parker was counsel for Samuel Gompers in the boycott case at Washington.

THE IRON HAND

That Is What Is Needed in Mexico, Says Former Minister.

Monterey, Mex., Feb. 13.—A dispatch from the City of Mexico says Garcia Gandos, formerly minister of the interior, in an interview said that he considered that through the vacillation and weakness of the present government the situation in the country has come to an open state of anarchy, which left but two alternatives open, a new dictatorship or intervention.

He said that he did not think that any change in the cabinet would contribute to the solution of the situation, and he saw nothing for the present government to do but for President Madero and Vice President Suarez to present their resignations and ask the chamber of deputies to name men to take their places who are strong enough to handle the country with an iron hand. This he said would require a greater degree of patriotism than to shed the blood of hundreds of men.

Charged With Attempted Robbery.

Logansport, Ind., Feb. 13.—Elmer Keensman, aged twenty-eight, who says he has a diploma as a detective from a correspondence school, is being held in Cass county jail on charge of having attempted to hold up and rob Jacob Tussing, saloon keeper.

DINNER IN A PAPER BAG.

For the roast, choose a rolled one, season well and rub thickly with salt, slip into a bag which is large enough for the roast; grease the bag with suet, as butter burns more quickly. A three-pound roast will take about forty-five minutes to roast. Slide the roast out on a heated platter, break the bag gently to allow the gravy to escape. Reheat the gravy and brown with flour. The one drawback in paper bag cookery is that the gravy is never the rich brown of ordinary roasts. The flour to be added may be browned to overcome this defect, or "kitchen bouquet" may be added for coloring.

A fowl roasted in a bag with a bunch of celery or an onion for stuffing is not a dish to be lightly esteemed.

Grease a bag and partly fill with small, even-sized onions, add a little water and cook until tender, the time depending upon the size of the onions. Remove the bag, puncture the bottom to let the liquor escape, season with butter and cream or with a white sauce, as one likes.

Potato straws are very attractive and quickly cooked. Peel the potatoes and slice on a vegetable cutter into straws, parboil for five minutes, drain, add butter, pepper and salt and put into a greased bag and bake for fifteen or twenty minutes. Serve around the roast as a garnish. Sweet potatoes are nice prepared in this way and sugar and butter added to them when put into the bag.

Pies and baked puddings are much improved in texture if baked in bags.

Cake to be used for puddings, that is a little stale, may be freshened nicely by putting for a few minutes into a bag and laying on the oven rack.

For a small company chops are very nice cooked in the individual size and served piping hot in the bag to each guest. When our hotels and restaurants take up paper bag cookery in earnest we will not be served with cold chops or steaks.

BACKACHE NOT A DISEASE

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

TASTE, SMELL AND HEARING GONE

Destroyed by Catarrh Can Be Quickly Restored by Using Ely's Cream Balm.

The thousands who suffer the miseries of colds and catarrh and claim they have never found a cure can get instant relief by simply anointing the nostrils with Ely's Cream Balm.

Unlike internal mixtures which upset the stomach, or strong snuffs which only aggravate the trouble, this cleansing, healing, antiseptic balm instantly reaches the seat of the trouble, stops the nasty discharge, clears the nose, head and throat, and brings back the sense of taste, smell and hearing. More than this, it strengthens the weakened and diseased tissues, thus protecting you against a return of the trouble. This remedy will cure a cold in a day, and prevent its becoming chronic or resulting in catarrh.

Nasal catarrh is an inflammation of the membrane lining the air passages, and cannot be reached by mixtures taken into the stomach, nor can it be cured by snuffs and powders which only cause additional irritation. Don't waste time on them. Get a 50-cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and after using it for a day you will wish you had tried it sooner.

CARDUI WORKED LIKE A CHARM

After Operation Failed to Help, Cardui Worked Like a Charm.

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, in a letter from this place, "and at times, I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cancer.

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now, I am well, and can do my own work. I don't feel any pains.

Cardui worked like a charm."

There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for women—Cardui—for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it, for your troubles.

The War Fifty Years Ago

Fort Donelson, Tennessee, Bombarded and Captured. The Federal Fleet of Ironclads Beaten Off by the Guns of the Fort—The Confederates Sally Out of Their Works and Fight For a Road of Escape—A Brilliant Charge Led by General Lew Wallace and General C. F. Smith Compels Them to Return to the Fort—Division in the Confederate Councils—Two Commanders Abandon the Post.

By Captain GEORGE L. KILMER, Late U. S. V.

FORT HENRY, Tennessee, a naturally strong post maintained on the Tennessee river by Confederates to guard their base of supplies at Nashville, was bombarded and captured by the Federal navy on Feb. 6 fifty years ago. The attack followed a reconnaissance made in January by General C. F. Smith. Smith had reported to his chief that the post could be taken by the navy alone.

The Confederate commander at Fort Henry was General Lloyd Tilghman. Smith's demonstration alarmed him, and he began to strengthen his intrenchments as soon as his scouts brought to headquarters word of the approach of enemies.

Tilghman seems to have been the first one to think seriously of a Federal attack upon the famous Fort Donelson, situated on Cumberland river twelve miles east of Fort Henry. He wrote to his superior officer, General Polk, who was at Columbus, Ky., that to be made with but fifty-four men, with nine guns. The Confederates had watched the gathering of warships and divisions of men in blue. They exaggerated the soldiers under Grant as much as he exaggerated their strength and desperation. General Tilghman called his officers in council and stated that the case was hopeless with less than 4,000 men, mostly raw recruits and poorly armed, against a fleet of ironclads and 25,000 fighters on land. Turning to his captain of artillery, he said, "Can you hold out one hour against a determined attack?" The answer was in the affirmative, and orders were given for withdrawing the mass across country toward Fort Donelson.

Captain Jesse Taylor commanded the Fort Henry gunners, who belonged to the Tennessee volunteer militia. He assigned one gun to each of the seven Federal warships which were in line, covered by an island one mile below the fort. At 11:35 a. m. the ships steamed into the channel, the four ironclads leading and the Carondelet and St. Louis interlocked for want of sea room. Not a shot was fired by either side until the ironclads were within fair range of the fort, the flag, the earthworks and quarters and the gunners at their guns. Then the flagship Cincinnati fired the signal shot, and it was instantly answered by every one of Taylor's guns. The commander of the Carondelet said that the fort was one sheet of flame, and Captain Taylor described the firing of the ironclads as having been "as pretty and as simultaneous a broadside as ever flashed from a frigate."

Rapid Fire From the Gunboats.

The gunboat fire was steady and rapid for over an hour. From the decks the naval officers could see the earthen walls of the fort plowed up and the debris showered over the Confederate guns. One of Captain Taylor's guns, a rifled piece, burst and disabled many of the men. His columbiad was spiked by its own priming wire getting fast, and two thirty-two pounders were

A. H. FOOTE, U. S. N., CAPTAIN OF FORT HENRY, AND REAR ADMIRAL L. M. GOLDSBOROUGH, U. S. N., LEADER OF THE NAVY AT ROANOKE ISLAND.

Smith might be preparing to attack Fort Henry or Fort Donelson or both. He added that Smith would find a good road leading from the Tennessee river to Fort Donelson.

Fort Donelson was nearer to Nashville than Fort Henry. To subdue the latter a joint expedition of warships and local troops set out from Cairo, Ill., on Feb. 2. Flag Officer A. H. Foote commanded the fleet and General U. S. Grant the army.

There were only enough steamers at hand to carry half the force needed, about 8,000 men, and this detachment, conveyed by the new ironclads Carondelet, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Essex and the wooden gunboats Tyler, Lexington and Conestoga, steamed up the river. General J. A. McClernand commanded the leading column of soldiers and halted the transports within nine miles of Fort Henry. The gunboats went within six miles. Grant reached the front on the 4th, and the navy reconnoitered the vicinity of the fort to see if soldiers could safely be put ashore at some point near the scene of attack. Grant boarded the Essex, and she steamed up within range, receiving a shot which showed that there were good gunners in the fort.

Grant Overestimates the Enemy.

Anticipating a heavy battle, Grant returned down the river to bring all his troops to the scene. He decided to attack on the 6th and not allow the Confederates time to re-enforce the garrison, as he believed the enemy would defend to the last extremity. In this he was mistaken, for the coming fight against his whole fleet and army was Surrenders to Flag Officer Foote.

General Tilghman hauled down the flag of Fort Henry at 1:30 p. m., when but two of his guns were left in action. He had lost five killed, eleven wounded and five missing. Accompanied by his staff, he went on board the Cincinnati and surrendered the garrison of seventy-eight men to Flag Officer Foote. General Grant reached the fort at 3 o'clock and relieved the navy of command.

Grant's troops had been prevented from attacking on the land side by the difficulties of the march, which was through a dense forest flooded by a recent heavy rain. The Federal cavalry attempted to head off the main body of Confederates on their retreat toward Donelson, but only succeeded in picking up a few belated stragglers and two cannon. On the day following this naval victory the United States congress rushed through an appropriation of $10,000,000 for new ironclads.

Fall of Roanoke Island, N. C.

Roanoke island fell a prize to Burnside's forces Feb. 8, 1862. It was a victory that surprised and encouraged the people and the soldiery of the north. Roanoke island is separated from the mainland by a sound three to four miles wide. The Confederate forts upon the island and a fleet in the sound disputed the advance into Albemarle sound.

The channel of the sound was obstructed by sunken wrecks, behind which lay a fleet of wooden gunboats. A line of forts and batteries stretched from the anchorage of the ships down the shore four miles, resting on the left in a dense and impassable swamp, where a three gun battery had been constructed to command the only causeway across the swamp. A gun fired from one of the Confederate gunboats announced the approach of the Federal squadron. At half past 11 on the 7th the conflict commenced between the gunboats at long range. The Confederate boats gradually retired, drawing their opponents within range of the forts, when fire was opened by the latter.

Land Troops Move to Attack.

The contest between the boats and the forts continued with varied energy during the next three hours, in which time the barracks within the forts were consumed. At 3 o'clock the troops began to land, under the protection of the fire of the three gunboats. At this time the Confederate gunboats drew near and recommenced the action, which was continued until their ammunition was exhausted. They then retired up the inlet or sound. The forts then continued to fire until the Union gunboats retired for the night. The bravery of the Confederate defense was admitted on every side. On the Federal side five had been killed and ten wounded. In the forts the Confederates reported one killed and three wounded and in the gunboats five wounded and the largest gunboat sunk and another disabled. By 4 o'clock the Federal transports had all arrived, and the first body of troops landed unobstructed at 5 o'clock. In a short time 6,000 men were on shore, and the remainder of them landed soon after. The next morning the troops started in three columns, the center, under General Foster, composed of the Twenty-third, Twenty-fifth and Twenty-seventh Massachusetts and Tenth Connecticut; the next, or left flanking column, under General Reno, consisted of the Twenty-first Massachusetts, Fifty-first New York, Ninth New Jersey and Fifty-first Pennsylvania; the third, or right flanking column, under General Parke, consisted of the Fourth Rhode Island, First battalion of the Fifth Rhode Island and the Ninth New York.

The approach to the enemy was by road through a swamp on each side of which was a thick underbrush. An earthwork about thirty-five yards wide had been erected across the road for defense.

The tug of war came when the soldiers attempted to carry the swamp battery. All depended upon that, for the Union fleet had dispersed the Confederate ships, yet were unable to silence the forts. These could not be stormed from the water side nor reached at all excepting by the road through the swamp. Hawkins' zouaves (Ninth New York), the Fifty-first New York and the Twenty-first Massachusetts captured the battery by a rush.

The attack was bravely made as it had been planned upon the enemy's position, and after a most spirited and splendid defense, as reported by the assailants, they were obliged to give way before this overwhelming force and, retiring farther up the island, were overtaken and Colonel Shaw, their commander, surrendered. Thus six forts, forty guns, over 2,000 prisoners and 3,000 stands of arms were captured. The Union loss was 37 killed and 214 wounded. The Confederate loss in killed was reported to be 23 killed and 58 wounded. The capture of the island forts opened Albemarle sound to the Federal warships. On the 10th Commander S. C. Rowan's division attacked the Confederate defenders of Elizabeth City and brought about the surrender of that post.

SLEEPER TELLS OF RELEASE

Somnambulist Foretells Removal of Many Union Prisoners From Prison at Cahaba.

Release of a large number of prisoners from the cotton warehouse prison at Cahaba, Ala., was foretold by a sleeping northerner in the hearing of several of his fellow prisoners, according to L. Q. Jeffries, who received his freedom two weeks before Lee's surrender at Appomattox. Mr. Jeffries' account of the weird happening is given here as he himself has written it; after telling of earlier experiences at Cahaba.

"The Alabama river overflowed and the water became of the average depth of one foot in the prison, and in one end it was waist deep. We stayed in this water for eight days, because all available boats were used in transporting Confederate troops to reinforce Mobile.

"Seven of us formed a mess. We were known as the hymn-singing mess, and a few times we were aroused by a guard from our sleep on the ground in the corner where the water became the deepest to sing to him. This we did to the annoyance of others thereby awakened, who told us to shut up.

"Harrison of our mess was in a way a somnambulist, because of our surroundings, and he kept us awake almost nightly by imagining he commanded a battery. He would square himself around and at his command, 'Fire!' would kick us in the back. We had to sleep 'spoon fashion' so that one gray blanket might cover us all, but when Harrison 'walked' he had the blanket.

"One day a black-ringed dove gained an entrance through the roof ventilator and perched itself on the beams. One of the guards said he was going to shoot it. Some of the prisoners threatened to hurt him if he did, and so the next day all loose stones were picked up and taken away. That night Harrison had another 'walk,' but he was decent about it that time. He got us all awake. I lay next to him and got a hard kick in the back. Quietly down, he began to mutter and then to talk, saying, 'Pretty birdie! Get a letter—and for me?' His hands moved as if receiving and opening a letter. 'Written in blood! In six days you will be out of bondage.' He sighed, turned over and was soon asleep, and so were we.

"Ten days afterward we were out of that prison and on our way to God's country to Union lines. We were taken by boats to the barracks at Selma, from there by train and boats to Jackson, Miss., and on foot through Black River swamp in a heavy rain and heavy thunderstorm, wading deep water for five miles across Black river on a pontoon bridge, then by train to Camp Fiske, 16 miles from Vicksburg, where were 5,000 paroled Union prisoners guarded by United States colored troops.

"Several years ago in the west I told this dove story to an audience at a state encampment of the Grand Army. A few weeks later I received a postal card from a comrade who had heard me tell it, saying, 'Say, that's a good dove story, all right. I'm a pretty good liar myself and I can't beat it.' I was there. I saw the dove with the sleeper ring around its neck, saw the sleeper and heard his words and was on my way to freedom ten days later, March 21, 1865."

A Slight Mistake.

When the One Hundred and Tenth Pennsylvania moved from Winchester towards Fredericksburg in May, 1862, they passed a nice-looking farm, where a couple of calves scampered across the meadow beside the road.

"What pretty little cowlets," said one in babyish accents.

"Ye air mistooken," came from a prosaic individual in the ranks behind him; "them air bullets."

Too Quick.

A cavalryman who stuttered lost his Colt's, and told a comrade he would buy one of his.

"How much will ye give?"

"I'll give fu-tu-ru—"

"Four dollars." Done.

"All right, b-b-but I was goin' to s-s-say fu-tu-ru dollars."

JUDGE JACKSON PRESIDENT

application of their remedy by revision.

From long years of the Republican party's achievements and dominance in the affairs of the nation, we recognize that to continue to enjoy the confidence and approval of the American people, the Republican party must reaffirm and faithfully practice the political principles and practices which have made it so great in the past, and we are conscious that only so long as the party shall deserve to retain the public confidence, so long shall we remain in power. We enter the campaign of 1912 with eagerness and confident of victory.

The league is not organized to make platforms or nominate candidates, but to uphold the one and support the other when made by the properly constituted Republican conventions.

Meeting on the anniversary of the birth of the great emancipator as members of the party which first marched to victory under his leadership we pause to pay tribute to his memory and to renew our allegiance to the party that he loved so well.

We commend to the young men of Indiana a careful study of the life and character of this great man, Abraham Lincoln, his unselfishness and devotion to his country and to his high ideals of citizenship and public welfare which actuated his every motive during his life.

A Rare Opportunity

The art exhibit given by the High School opened this morning. The detailed catalogues enable those who so desire to make a very satisfactory study of the various periods of art. To see the exhibit once will make you wish to come again.

That all may be accommodated and enabled to study the pictures, arrangements have been made to keep the exhibit open to the public at the following hours 9 to 11:30 a. m., 2 to 5:30 p. m. and 7 to 9 on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and all day on Saturday.

At all times there will be people to show and explain the exhibit and to take orders from those who wish to purchase pictures for themselves. Every afternoon at three and every evening at seven-thirty short talks will be given on the pictures and different schools of art for those who wish to hear them.

ber 25, 1850, at Seymour, Ind. Two sons were born to this union.

Alfred A. Baldwin, a son of Mrs. Standsfield, was the first engineer on the Santa Fe system and ran engine No. 1 which was called Col. C. K. Holliday in honor of the father of C. K. Holliday, Jr., who organized the system. Mr. Baldwin ran this engine until the road was completed to Newton and later became master mechanic. He died soon after and is buried in the Topeka cemetery.

Her four brothers and one son served in the Union army during the civil war.

Among her children who are living are W. J. H. Baldwin aged 63, with whom she makes her home. Mr. Baldwin is a well known shoemaker and runs a shop on East Sixth avenue under Frank Klingaman's drug store.

Austin Standsfield, aged 50, of Arkansas City; George Standsfield, aged 61, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Mahalia Reed, aged 75, who lives on west First street and Mrs. Mary E. Pennie, aged 65, of Newkirk, Okla.

She has seen Halley's comet two times. She saw it in 1836 and again last year. She took her first automobile ride with L. M. Penwell about two years ago and enjoyed it very much.

She recalls the first railway train she ever saw. It was in Seymour, Ind., a number of years ago. She, with a number of her family, were in Seymour on this occasion. The coming of the train had been advertised in advance and the town was filled with people. The streets along the track were filled with people and they had to be forced back that the train might proceed to the station.

She has a large number of descendants, among which are thirty-two grandchildren, and twenty great grandchildren.

She spends most of her time in making paper flowers, at which she is an adept, sews some but rests and sleeps during the day whenever she feels fatigued.

She has made 16 quilts during the last ten years.

During her life, Mrs. Standsfield has spun cotton and wool, sewed, knitted, crocheted and done numerous other kinds of needle work. She has not been an idle woman.

Among those who are her guests today is her daughter, Mrs. Mahalia Reed of this city, who is 75 years old.

Mrs. Baldwin was an aunt of "Lucky" Baldwin, the millionaire turfman of California. Her first husband and Lucky's father were brothers.

CHINA NOW HAS A NEW REGIME

The Manchus Have Retired From the Capital.

ANCIENT SCEPTER LAID DOWN

Overcome by the Presence of Modern
Demand, Power That Has Ruled
Over "the Middle Kingdom" For Three Hundred Years, Gives Way
and Offers Its Remaining Influence
to Inauguration of the New Republic.

Peking, Feb. 13.—After weeks of intrigue and evasion the Manchu dynasty has passed into history, the imperial family having issued an edict announcing the abdication of the baby
emperor Pu Yi, and the establishment of a republic to succeed the government which has ruled the Mongolian empire for nearly three centuries.

The terms of the edict are similar to those already published. The boy
emperor, Pu Yi, will be taken to Jehol,
where the summer palace is located,
and the imperial family will live off
the bounty of the republic. Immediate extension of the authority of the republican government at Nanking to include the provinces which had remained loyal to the throne is now expected. News of the edict was telegraphed to the republican capital, for its contents were already known there.
The throne pledged its sacred honor to carry out all the guarantees promised
in the instrument.

Premier Yuan Shih Kai has reached
an agreement with the republicans by which he will render material assistance in the reformation of China. A speedy settlement of the crisis is now expected. Two capitals will be maintained—one at Nanking and the other at Peking—but it is expected that the republicans will eventually do away
with Peking as a capital city, as the new central government today stands at Nanking.

NOW TO BUSINESS

China Is Expected to Profit Greatly by the Change.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Official confirmation of the press dispatches stating that the Chinese emperor had abdicated his throne has not yet been received at the state department, but officials there are giving complete credence to published accounts of the abdication.

The issuance of the edicts of abdication will relieve the situation in China
very considerably, department officials believe. In fact, they regard the news
as marking the end of the crisis in China, at least for the present. It is pointed out that the way is now cleared for the imperialist factions and the republicans to get together and work out a definite frame for the republican government. The position of the republicans is considered the most advantageous for their interests, as they have won practically everything they sought from the throne and Yuan Shih Kai.

Yuan's influence, though he will be without definite official status for the interim, will be very great, it is believed. There is little doubt that he will be a leading figure in the councils which must be held. His election to the presidency is regarded here as the logical and natural outcome of the situation now that the emperor has abdicated. Provisional President Sun Yat Sen has announced repeatedly that he is ready to step down as soon as republican government is established
and a means provided for the choice
of a president.

Information reaching Washington is to the effect that the republicans have established at Nanking an efficient and complete government. A cabinet and assembly have been organized and administrative officers appointed throughout the entire territory under control of the provisional government. These officers are said to be performing their duties in a most capable manner considering the circumstances, and an early restoration of normal business conditions is expected.

More Flying Machines For the Army.
Washington, Feb. 13.—Brigadier General James Allen, chief of the signal corps, will order five more aeroplanes for the army in a few days.
The army aviators, six in number, are now at Augusta, Ga., where they are working with the five aeroplanes previously purchased. They will return to College Park in the spring.

EARL OF GRANARD

English Nobleman Loses Out on Account of His American Wife.

AMERICAN WIFE IS A HANDICAP TO AN EARL

Granard Likely to Lose Coveted Court Plum.

London, Feb. 13.—There are reports
in society that the Earl of Granard,
whose appointment as lord chamberlain to succeed Earl Spencer, who has just resigned, had been rumored, is not likely to be appointed because of the fact that his wife, who was Miss Beatrice Mills, is an American. It is rumored that the specific objection to him is that it would be impolitic to have an American woman in a position to influence the lord chamberlain, who is the practical arbiter of British society through his power to determine who shall be commanded to attend court functions. The story has received much currency, but so far is not backed by anything authoritative.

A CHARMED LIFE

Boy Leaped From Fast Train and Made Good His Escape.

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Feb. 13.—
While being taken back to the Rochester industrial school, from which institution he escaped a few weeks ago,
Harry Orr, a sixteen-year-old boy, eluded his attendant aboard a fast West Shore train, and running to the platform, jumped from the train while it was traveling at the rate of fifty miles an hour. The officer and several men started back along the tracks, thinking they would find the boy's dead
body, but when they reached the point,
could find no trace of him. Tracks in the snow indicated that he had cut across a field to the highway and made good his escape.

REHEARING FOR SORGHUM M'COY

Woman Takes Interest In Train
Robber's Case.

HIS LETTER CONVINCED HER

When Convicted Man Made an Epistolary Appeal to Court For Another Hearing, Declaring His Innocence, Court Was Not Impressed Thereby,
but Appeal Interested Woman, Who Is Raising Money to Reopen Case.

Anderson, Ind., Feb. 13.—An Anderson woman who knows no more of Sorghum McCoy than what she has read of him, has started a movement
to create a fund with which to employ counsel to seek another trial for Mc-Coy who was convicted at Muncie of holding up a Big Four railroad passenger train and robbing several passengers, and was sentenced by Judge
Ellis to a long term in prison.

Mrs. George Easterbrook of this city
read a published written letter by Mc-Coy to Judge Ellis, pleading for another hearing, saying that he was not guilty of the robbery and had been a victim of circumstances. Mrs. Easter-brook was impressed with the prisoner's plea. She subscribed $2 to start a fund for legal assistance and the fund is growing. Indications are that the amount will soon be sufficient
to induce a lawyer to take up the case.

THRASHING IT OUT

Attorneys in Whiccap Case Wrangling
Over Bill of Exceptions.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 13.—A second "bill of exceptions" in the case of Sillas Adams, convicted last week of being connected with the whicapping
of Harvey McFarland, on which the defense wishes to make its appeal to the supreme court, was presented to Judge Wilson by the attorneys for the defense. J. E. Henley objected to the bill of exceptions and the court took
the list of thirty-eight exceptions under consideration.

The exceptions that cannot be agreed on are those growing out of the arguments to the jury by Henley and East. The attorneys for the defense wish the exceptions to show that they objected to the statements made before the jury during the arguments and asked that the prisoner be discharged.
The state's attorneys say the objections were not formally made, although Adams's friends say they have raised
the necessary $3,000 bond for his release and the bond cannot be accepted
until the matter of the bill of exceptions is settled and the court record
made.

Famous Cave in Litigation.

Bedford, Ind., Feb. 13.—Litigation
for the possession of the Donaldson cave property, owned by George Donaldson, an eccentric Scotchman, who died a number of years ago, leaving only alien heirs, has been appealed to the supreme court. The suit involves the title to the Donaldson farm, which reverted to the state after a long fight
for possession by John T. Stout of Paoli.
The cave is next to the Wyandotte
cave in size and is a favorite picnic
place.

Voting Machines Get Black Eye.

Muncie, Ind., Feb. 13.—Disgusted
by the fact that the voting machines
employed at elections in Delaware county for several years have always caused the loss of hundreds of ballots and have resulted in many contests by candidates, the Republican county central committee has decided to go back to the old Australian ballot system
for the primary election March 22.

He Left a Note.

Lebanon, Ind., Feb. 13.—T. K. Clawson, aged fifty-five, a farmer living four miles northeast of Thorntown, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid.
He left a note, which was found by his son Harley, in which he gave ill health as a motive for his act. Six sons and one daughter survive.

Her Garments Caught Fire.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 13.—Too feeble to make her cries for help heard, Mrs. Sarah Jane Jamison, aged eighty-five, was burned to death at the home
of her daughter at Hoagland. Mrs.
Jamison's garments caught fire from a
stove and she fell just outside the room.

Couldn't Find Work.

Danville, Ind., Feb. 13.—James T.
Davis, aged fifty-five, committed suicide at the home of his brother, George E. Davis, near Danville, by drinking carbolic acid. He was a widower and was despondent over not having work.

Despondent Over Ill-Health.

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 13.—Theodore Gorrell, aged fifty-one, who recently moved from the city to a farm,
after obtaining a divorce, committed suicide with a revolver. He was despondent on account of ill health.

PLAN A SUBSTITUTE FOR PENSION BILL

New Law Will Be Based Upon Service.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The senate committee on pensions, after rejecting
the Sherwood "dollar-a-day" pension
bill by a vote of 10 to 4, agreed favorably to report a substitute measure
based on service and age, carrying an appropriation of $24,115,578. Senators Bryan of Florida and Gore of Oklahoma voted against the substitute and will carry their fight to the floor of the senate, where they will be joined by Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia and other Democrats opposed to pension legislation. Curtis of Kansas, Brown of Nebraska, Republicans, and two Democrats, Shively of Indiana and Johnson of Maine, voted for the "dollar-a-day" bill.

By a vote of 7 to 6 the committee
adopted Senator Bryan's amendment
providing for the publication of the names and postoffice addresses of all pensioners on the government rolls.
Senator Bryan believes this publicity
will disclose many pension frauds and materially reduce the number. The names of pensioners have not been published since 1884.

The committee substitute, which it is believed will be adopted by the senate, means an annual increase per pensioner of $57.27, according to the estimate of the commissioner of pensions. The details of the bill are summarized as follows:

Soldiers who served as much as ninety days, from $13 to $21 per month, based on ages ranging from sixty-two to seventy-five years and over: six-months men, $13.50 to $22.50; one-year men, $14 to $24; one-
and-a-half-year men, $14.50 to $25.50;
two-year men, $15 to $27; two-and-a-half-year men, $15.50 to $28.50; three-year men and over, $16 to $30.

When the senate substitute becomes
a law, as it probably will, the pension appropriations of the government will have reached their high-water mark in the history of the country. The pension bill for this year, which has recently passed the house, carries $152,- 000,000. The senate substitute will increase this amount to $176,112,000 annually. The previous high-water mark reached several years ago was $166,- 000,000.

DISREGARDED TRUCE

Mexican Rebels Fire on White Flag
and Are Promptly "Licked."

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 13.—Eighteen of Braulio Hernandez's rebels were taken prisoners and a number killed in a battle with a band of loyal soldiers under Colonel Jose Orozco, at Meoqui, state of Chihuahua. It was the first real battle of the present revolution, and a number of men are reported killed on both sides. Hernandez, who was until lately secretary of the state of Chihuahua, is reported to have fled westward with his men.

In government circles it is declared
that Colonel Orozco was on his way to the Hernandez camp to treat for peace with Hernandez and his followers, and that, although the Orozco
party carried a flag of truce, the rebels fired when they came in sight, whereupon the Orozco command returned
the fire and the battle ensued.

ORE IS'NT GOING DOWN, SAYS HILL

Old Railroad King Knows Value
of His Bargain.

HE BEAT ROCKEFELLER TO IT

Further Details of That Mesaba Range
Deal Are Laid Before the Stanley Committee, James J. Hill Telling of His Generosity in Buying in For His Shareholders a Half Billion Property
For a Mere Song.

Washington, Feb. 13.—With a story
of his great generosity in acquiring the Lake Superior ore lands for the benefit of the shareholders of the Great Northern railroad, James J. Hill entertained the Stanley steel committee.
In a matter of fact way he recounted
how for a mere $4,500,000 he had come into control of property in the Mesaba
region which he now values at $500,- 000,000.

These ore lands, covering an area
of 39,000 acres, were, Mr. Hill testified, formerly the property of Wright & Davis, a firm that operated a railroad and owned other property in the Mesaba region. Mr. Hill learned that this firm wanted to sell, and just as they were about to close out to the Consolidated company, a Rockefeller concern, the head of the Great Northern stepped in and clinched the bargain at $4,500,000.

Mr. Hill immediately turned over his interest in the acquired property to the Lake Superior Consolidated Copper company, a corporation in which his three sons and E. T. C. Nichols were the controlling spirits. Mr. Hill testified that he bought these ore lands
for the benefit of the shareholders of the Great Northern. Asked if the Great Northern had not supplied the funds that enabled him to make the purchase, Mr. Hill replied emphatically in the negative.

"I have been working for my shareholders for thirty-three years," he said. "Whenever I have seen a chance to make money for myself it was an opportunity that I turned to their advantage."

Mr. Hill was summoned by the committee to tell about the relations of the Hill and the steel roads in the Mesaba country and also to narrate the circumstances under which the United States Steel corporation, represented by J. P. Morgan & Co., acquired the Hill ore properties under lease.

Mr. Hill gave everyone to understand that he was not worried over the notice given by the steel corporation
that it would terminate its leases of the Hill ore properties in 1915.

"Ore is not going down," said Mr.
Hill with a wink. "We have 500,000-000 tons in our land. I would not take a dollar a ton for it today."

STIMSON EXPLAINS

Secretary of War Resents Criticism of Army Expenses.

Washington, Feb. 13.—A published
statement that the United States army
had cost $1,896,000,000 in the last thirteen years brought a vigorous protest from Secretary of War Stimson. This statement was based on figures given out by Representative Helm, Democrat, chairman of the house committee which has been investigating expenditures in that department. Secretary Stimson pointed out that this sum cannot be said to be the amount spent on the army, inasmuch as it includes the tremendous expenditures
upon river and harbor work in that period, the cost of the Spanish-American war operations, the cost of the Philippines insurrection, the Chinese relief expedition, the cost of two Cuban interventions; expenses on the state military organizations, fortifications, including permanent plants and defenses and buildings, all permanent,
all the soldiers' homes and all the national cemeteries.

Patrolling the Border.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 13.—General
J. W. Duncan has his entire command of 5,000 men scattered along the Texas
frontier ready to take such steps as may be deemed necessary to protect Americans on either side of the Rio Grande. The men and the officers have received strict orders that under no circumstances are they to invade Mexico.

Another Postoffice Robbed.

Pearl, Ill., Feb. 13.—Safeblowers obtained $145 in currency and $650 in stamps from the postoffice safe here.
W. S. Foreman, the postmaster, who was awakened by the explosion, and his daughter were fired at three times
by the robbers. There were three men in the band.

Held on Murder Charge.

Shamokin, Pa., Feb. 13.—Frederick
Nye, eighteen years old, has been imprisoned charged with murdering Henry Miller in his bowling alley at Sunbury, and then robbing the place. A loaded revolver was taken from Nye
when arrested.

Coffee Grain Killed Baby.

Mt. Vernon, Ill., Feb. 13.—The two-year-old son of Charles Pasley, living near Mt. Vernon, is dead as the result of a grain of coffee becoming lodged in his lungs.

Practical Fashions

MISSES' DRESS.

This model offers a semi-dressy design for a young girl; one that can be made of simple serge or cheviot and answer for day uses, or which can be developed in a light silk or in a pretty crepe material and serve for evening wear. The kimono sleeve is used
and there is a group of tucks at each side of the deep yoke, while the skirt
is of empire design.

The pattern (5616) is cut in sizes 14,
16 and 18 years. Medium size requires 4 yards of 36 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents
to "Pattern Department," of this paper.
Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Elam Harnish, known through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 30th birthday with a friendly crowd of miners at the Circle City. He is a general favorite, a law and a pioneer in the new gold fields. The dance leads to heavy gambling in which over $100,000 is staked. Harnish loses his money and his mine but wins a mail contract of the district.

CHAPTER II.—Burning Daylight starts on his trip to deliver the mail with dogs and sleds. He tells his friends that the big Yukon gold strike will soon be on and he intends to be in it at the start. With Indian attendants and dogs he dips over the bank and down the frozen Yukon and in the gray light is gone.

CHAPTER III.—Harnish makes a sensational rapid run across country with the mail, appears at the Circle City and there is another characteristic celebration. He has made a record against cold and exhaustion and is now ready to join his friends in a dash to the new gold fields.

CHAPTER IV.

This time the trail was easier. It was better packed, and they were not carrying mail against time. At Forty Mile they laid over two days for the sake of the dogs, and at Sixty Mile Daylight's team was left with the trader. Unlike Daylight, after the terrible run from Selkirk to Circle City, they had been unable to recuperate on the back trail. So the four men pulled on from Sixty Mile with a fresh team of dogs, on Daylight's sled. The following night they camped in the cluster of islands at the mouth of the Stewart. Daylight talked town sites, and, though the others laughed at him, he staked the whole maze of high, wooded island.

Just supposing the big strike does come on the Stewart," he argued. "Maybe you-all 'll be in on it, and then again maybe you-all won't. But I sure will. You-all 'd better reconsider and go in with me on it."

But they were stubborn. "You're as bad as Harper and Joe Ladue," said Joe Hines. "They're always at that game. You know that big flat just below the Klondike and under Moosehide Mountain? Well, the recorder at Forty Mile was tellin' me they staked that not a month ago—the Harper & Ladue Town Site. Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Eljah and Finn joined in his laughter, but Daylight was gravely in earnest.

"There she is!" he cried. "The bunch is working! It's in the air, I tell you-all! What'd they-all stake the big flat for if they-all didn't get the hunch? Wish I'd staked it."

The regret in his voice was provocative of a second burst of laughter.

"Laugh, dang you, laugh! Why your eyes ain't open yet. You-all are a bunch of little mewling kittens. I tell you-all if that strike comes on Klondike, Harper and Ladue will be millionaires. And if it comes on Stewart, you-all watch the Elam Harnish town site boom. In them days, when you-all come around makin' poor mouths . . ." He heaved a sigh of resignation. "Well, I suppose I'll have to give you-all a grub-stake or soap, or something or other."

In the meantime there was naught to show for it but hunch. But it was coming. As he would stake his last ounce on a good poker hand, so he staked his life and effort on the hunch that the future held in store a big strike on the Upper River. So he and his three companions, with dogs, and sleds, and snowshoes, toiled up the frozen breast of the Stewart, toiled on and on through the white wilderness where the unending stillness was never broken by the voices of men, the stroke of an ax, or the distant crack of a rifle. Gold they found on the bars, but not in paying quantities, and in the following May they returned to Sixty Mile.

Ten days later, Harper and Joe Ladue arrived at Sixty Mile, and Daylight, strong to obey the hunch that had come to him, traded a third interest in his Stewart town site for a third interest in theirs on the Klondike. They had faith in the Upper Country, and Harper left down-stream, with a raft-load of supplies, to start a small post at the mouth of the Klondike.

"Why don't you tackle Indian River, Daylight?" Harper advised, at parting. "There's whole slathers of creeks and draws draining in up there, and somewhere gold just crying to be found. That's my hunch. There's a big strike coming, and Indian River ain't going to be a million miles away."

"And the place is swarming with moose," Joe Ladue added. "Bob Henderson's up there somewhere, been there three years now, swearing something big is going to happen, living off'n straight moose and prospecting around like a crazy man."

Daylight decided to go Indian River a flutter, as he expressed it; and lingered a few days longer arranging his larger outfit. He planned to go in light, carrying a pack of seventy-five pounds and making his five dogs pack as well, Indian fashion, loading them with thirty pounds each. Depending on the report of Ladue, he intended to follow Bob Henderson's example and live practically on a straight meat

When Jack Kearns' scow, laden with the sawmill from Lake Linderman, tied up at Sixty Mile, Daylight bundled his outfit and dogs on board, turned his town-site application over to Eljah to be filed, and the same day was landed at the mouth of Indian River. He continued down Hunker to the Klondike, and on to the summer fishing camp of the Indians on the Yukon.

Here for a day he camped with Carmack, a squaw-man, and his Indian brother-in-law, Skookum Jim, bought a boat, and, with his dogs on board, drifted down the Yukon to Forty Mile. Then it was that Carmack, his brother-in-law, Skookum Jim, and Cultus Charlie, another Indian, arrived in a canoe at Forty Mile, went straight to the gold commissioner, and recorded three claims and a discovery claim on Bonanza Creek. After that, in the Sourdough Saloon, that night, they exhibited coarse gold to the skeptical crowd. Daylight, too, was skeptical, and this despite his faith in the Upper Country. Had he not, only a few days before, seen Carmack loafing with his Indians and with never a thought of prospecting? But at eleven that night, sitting on the edge of his bunk and unlacing his moccasins, a thought came to him. He put on his coat and hat and went back to the Sourdough. Carmack was still there, flashing his coarse gold in the eyes of an unbelieving generation. Daylight ranged alongside of him and emptied Carmack's sack into a blower. This he studied for a long time. Then, from his own sack, into another blower, he emptied several ounces of Circle City and Forty Mile gold. Again, for a long time, he studied and compared. Finally, he pocketed his own gold, returned Carmack's, and held up his hand for silence.

"Boys, I want to tell you-all something," he said. "She's sure come—the up-river strike. And I tell you-all, clear and forcible, this is it. There ain't never been gold like that in a blower in this country before. It's new gold. It's got more silver in it."

"Who-all's Got Faith to Come Along With Me?"

You-all can see it by the color. Carmack's sure made a strike. Who-all's got faith to come along with me?"

No one volunteered.

"Then who-all 'll take a job from me, cash wages in advance, to pole up a thousand pounds of grub?"

Curly Parsons and another, Pat Monahan, accepted, and, with his customary speed, Daylight paid them their wages in advance and arranged the purchase of the supplies, though he emptied his sack in doing so. He was leaving the Sourdough, when he suddenly turned back to the bar from the door.

"Got another hunch?" was the query.

"I sure have," he answered. "Flour's sure going to be worth what a man will pay for it this winter up on the Klondike. Who'll lend me some money?"

On the instant a score of the men who had declined to accompany him on the wild-goose chase were crowding about him with proffered gold-sacks.

"How much flour do you want?" asked the Alaska Commercial Company's storekeeper.

"About two ton."

The proffered gold-sacks were not withdrawn, though their owners were guilty of an outrageous burst of merriment.

"What are you going to do with two tons?" the storekeeper demanded.

"I'll tell you-all in simple A, B, C and one, two, three." Daylight held up one finger and began checking off. "Hunch number one: a big strike coming in Upper Country. Hunch number two: Carmack's made it. Hunch number three: ain't no hunch at all. It's a cinch. If one and two is right, then flour just has to go sky-high. If I'm riding hunches one and two, I just got to ride this cinch, which is number three. If I'm right, flour 'll balance gold on the scales this winter."

TAKING CARE OF JEWELRY

Should Always Be Cleaned at Regular Intervals—Best Methods of Proceeding.

Provide yourself with an old toothbrush and a soft brush such as jewelers use, a bottle of grain alcohol and a box of jewelers' sawdust. You will also need a soft cloth, a piece of plain chamolis thoroughly impregnated with rouge powder. A few additional small bits of chamolis are also necessary for polishing. Then provide two dishes of lukewarm suds, made with fine white soap, and your outfit is complete.

First work on your plain, bright gold jewelry, or other material, which requires a high polish. Rub gently but thoroughly with the rouge chamolis until you bring it up to a brilliant polish. Next select the gold articles, which look most difficult to you, put them in the suds and scour thoroughly with the toothbrush. Practically all the dirt should come off in this process.

When completed, rinse in a second suds to clean still better. Then dip in alcohol and give a further brushing. Then dry carefully on a soft cloth and drop into the sawdust and rub about until they show a bright luster. With the jeweler's brush remove every particle of sawdust and give the articles the degree of polish they ought to have, using the soft brush and the plain chamolis for this purpose. The rouge chamolis is the highest polisher, but it can be used only before an article has been washed, because it leaves rouge powder on the jewelry.

All precious stones, except the pearl, will be beautiful after such a cleaning, nor will it dim the brilliancy of semi-precious stones, or even of common glass imitations. It will enhance their brilliance.

Silver jewelry that looks black will come out of this process with a fine white luster and gold will be returned to its original richness. Sterling silver jewelry can also be cleaned with remarkable ease by boiling in sal soda water.

Home-Made Brooches.

The peculiarity of the side frill or lapel that needs a pen to hold it in place has brought about the use of many ornamental brooches. One of the newest of these is made of gold braid with colored beads for the center. And any girl can make such a brooch. Disks of gold braid sewed together and centered with jewels or beads of desirable colorings make up easily. All sorts of shapes are given them and often pendants are added to tarnished gold buttons, or of passementerie ornaments or of beads or jewels. The brooches have strong safety pins sewed on at the back.

DURBAR CAP

This Durbar cap is copied from the ones worn by the Indian princes. It is of dull red velvet interlaced with jeweled gold ribbon and has a gold motif in front, holding a white osprey.

Dark Tailored Suits.

The tailor suit is without doubt the necessity of the moment, and although these are now to be seen in dark shades, a redeeming touch of color generally relieves the somber effect which they give, while it lies with the milliner to add the crowning of brightness and chic to the toilette.

The pin striped velveteens are frequently to be seen in tailor costumes, but velveteen may be considered rather an expensive material for coats and skirts, as it rubs so easily that it soon assumes a woe-begone appearance—and, surely, nothing looks half so shabby as a worn and tumbled velveteen. For the woman who has many costumes, of course, a frock of this kind is a delightful addition to her wardrobe, although the fact that cheap, ready-made coats and skirts are to be obtained in this material will rather prevent it becoming adopted by those in quest of novelty.

WOULD CLASSIFY ALL PEOPLE

W. M. Hays Says International Census Would Solve an Important Problem—Passing of the Tramp Joke.

Washington.—The classification of all the peoples of the world in a great international census, giving each person a number in a single world series, to the end that the human race may be improved by scientific marriage, was the plan advocated by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Hays in an address here before the American Breeders' association, one of the organizations making up the American Association for the Advancement of Science. As a means of improving the heredity of the human family Mr. Hays proposed a classification of all human beings, both as to mental aptitude and generic efficiency. Based on such knowledge as this census would give, he said, a "racial religion" would develop requiring the more efficient to produce families larger than the average, and those less efficient to produce families smaller than the average.

The world numbers, said Mr. Hays, would serve to join genealogies into one numerical system, so that all relationship could be traced. Each person would have a number or percentage that could easily be averaged so as to give the genetic or family values of each person. "Modern science and charity works against the law of the survival of the fittest," he declared, "by keeping alive many persons who inherit weaknesses such as feeble-mindedness or insanity. By paying attention to genetic efficiency a race may make itself stronger for the economic contests among the races of the world."

BISHOP IS BITTEN BY DOG

Churchman Tries to Separate Fighting Animals and Suffers Injuries from His Own Pet.

London.—The Bishop of Birmingham, Dr. Russell Wakefield, was badly bitten while trying to separate two dogs which had started a furious fight.

His lordship was walking in the neighborhood of his residence, Bishopscroft, Edgbaston, when his favorite dog, which always accompanies him on his early morning walks, quarreled and fought with another dog. The bishop caught hold of his own dog by the collar when the animal furiously attacked him and bit him several times on the right hand, causing deep wounds. The bishop returned home, and sent for a doctor, who cauterized and dressed the wounds.

In the afternoon the bishop attended the prize distribution at the Church of England college with his right arm in a sling and his hand bandaged. Sir Walter Fisher, the chairman of the meeting, announced that the bishop's injuries were said by the doctor to be going on quite satisfactorily.

UNDERTAKERS IN ODD FIGHT

Burial Using Auto in Conducting Funerals in Louisville, Ky., Hales Others Into Court.

Louisville, Ky.—The courts must decide whether an undertaker who was one of them can retain the standing which with his brother undertakers he enjoyed when the "honk honk" vehicles were luxuries rather than necessities. L. D. Bax, member of the Falls Cities Funeral Directors' association, recently obtained a temporary injunction directing that the association refrain from dropping him from membership. This act of the association is based on a resolution passed several years ago and providing that no member of the organization should use an automobile in his business without gaining the consent of the other members. Mr. Bax, thrice refused such permission, bought a motor undertaker's wagon anyway, and is seeking to compel the association, which sought by mutual agreement to keep down the use of expensive equipment, to indorse his departure from the rules.

CHEMISTRY OF GOOD ROADS

First Course in the World Offered at Oregon Agricultural College—Test All Materials.

Corvallis, Ore.—The first course in highway chemistry that has ever been offered in any college in the world has just been announced at the Oregon Agricultural college.

Professor John Fulton of the chemistry department has taken this step as a result of the increased demand for good roads. The course includes both physical and chemical tests of tars, bituminous products, asphalts, and all mixtures, such as sands, gravels, rocks and other ingredients of the modern highway.

Concrete testing and tests of the chemical changes in all these substances by exposure and weather will form an important part of the work, as will also the chemical study of surface protection, such as viscous oils.

Marriage on a Cash Basis.

Los Angeles.—As a result of charges made by Elsie Navajoff, a 17-year-old Russian girl, that her parents had tried to sell her in marriage to a man whom she had never seen, for $500, it was announced that all members of the Molokane colony had indicated a willingness to have marriage ceremonies performed over again wherever the law had been violated.

Mme. J. von Wagner of the city housing committee, said that at least one illegal marriage a week was performed in the Molokane colony.

FAILURE and ITS CURE

By Rev. Parley E. Zartman, Secretary of Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT.—As ye therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in Him: rooted and built up in Him, and established in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.—Col. 2: 6, 7.

Nothing mocks us so much as the sense of our own failure. We begin the day with great hopes, high ideal and lofty purposes, but when the day dies out of the sky we confess to ourselves how great has been our failure. This is especially true of Christians who begin the day with a sincere purpose to live as Christ would have them live, but who come to the close of the day confessing how far short they have come of being what Christ wanted them to be.

And the criticism of the world, and the curse of the church is, that in those of us who have named the name of Christ practice comes so far short of confession, and that many of us who make pious professions by the very negligence of our living crucify the Son of God afresh and put him to an open shame. Mr. Drummond spoke truthfully when he said that what the church needs is not more of us, but a better brand of us.

There is a better way to live. There is a Christian life possible to each one of us which is higher and holier and more victorious than any experience we have had hitherto. The perfection of Christian character is the perfection of faith in Jesus Christ—the faith that takes him to be all and in all. Just as by a simple act of faith we received the gift of salvation from the crucified Christ we are to receive from the risen Christ the grace which we need to live a consistent Christian life.

May we not explain our failure to become what we hoped to be, and what Christ wants us to be, because we do not understand the difference between the appreciation of Christ and the appropriation of Christ? The Christian church does not lack in appreciation sermons, prayers, hymns and testimonies swelling the praise of Jesus; but lack of appropriation is shown in indifference to the claims of Christ and the demands of a holy life, in spiritual unrest when Christ has said, "Peace I leave with you," and in frequent failure at the same point in my life. These are evidences of our neglect to take Christ as the complement of our daily need, of our neglect to clothe ourselves with Christ, of our lack of appropriation.

As one reads the New Testament three things are made clear:

I. God's purpose, which is to make us like Jesus Christ, although he uses various methods by which this end is attained. Sometimes the means used do not seem pleasant to us, but when we realize his high purpose, we shall be satisfied.

II. Christ's promise. As we begin to understand God's purpose we ask who is sufficient for these things; but in the presence of every high call of God, of every holy purpose, of every unattained ideal, Christ stands and says, "My grace is sufficient for you." And we may count him faithful who promised.

III. An adequate power. When we accept Christ by faith the holy spirit comes into us to perfect the purpose of God and to make the promise of Christ actual in our Christian experience. It is the realization of the purpose, the faith in Christ's promise, and surrender to the spirit that constitute the elements of that faith which is the perfection of Christian character. So our lack of deeper Christian experience, of power in prayer, and of usefulness in service, does not consist in the smallness of God's purpose nor the weakness of Christ's promise, nor the lack of an adequate power—our failure is because we do not appropriate all of God there is for us in Christ Jesus.

We are reminded of Martin Luther, who said that the entire secret of the Christian life lies in the use of the possessive pronouns; that it is a great thing to know that Jesus is a Savior, but a far greater thing to know that he is my Savior. In fact, the entire philosophy of the New Testament with relation to the Christian is that he shall put off the old man and shall put on the new.

Therefore, just as by faith I ask Christ to be my savior let me now take him for my need of humility, purity, strength, wisdom, sanctification, righteousness, redemption—"All I need in thee to find."

"Grace there is, my every debt to pay; Blood to wash my every sin away; Power to keep me day by day; For me, for me."

Take Christ, appropriate him, enter upon the full possession and appropriation of your great inheritance in Christ Jesus. It is the secret of a happy, victorious, Christ-like life.

Oh, How I Itched!

What long nerve-racking days of constant torture—what sleepless nights of terrible agony—itch—itch—itch, constant itch, until it seemed that I must tear off my very skin—then—
Instant relief—my skin cooled, soothed and healed!
The very first drops of D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema stopped that awful itch instantly; yes, the very moment D.D.D. touched the burning skin the torture ceased. A 25c bottle proves it.
D.D.D. has been known for years as the only absolutely reliable eczema remedy, for it washes away the disease germs and leaves the skin as clear and healthy as that of a child.
All other druggists have D.D.D. Prescription—go to them if you can't come to us—but don't accept some big profit substitute.
But if you come to our store, we are so certain of what D.D.D. will do for you that we offer you a full size bottle on this guarantee:—If you do not find that it takes away the itch AT ONCE, it costs you not a cent.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

CLAIM MADE

That John Karfage of Waymansville Is of Unsound Mind.

Deputy Sheriff Lew Thompson and Ed Garrison brought John Karfage, of near Waymansville, to this city Saturday afternoon and placed him in the county jail on a charge of breaking into a house with intent to commit larceny. When approached by the officers Karfage resisted arrest and from time to time on the way to this city he made efforts to escape from the rig.

The officers believe that Karfage is of unsound mind and there are said to be many residents of Waymansville neighborhood who are of like opinion and there is talk of holding a lunacy inquest on the unfortunate man.

An insanity affidavit was filed this morning against Karfage in Justice Kinney's court by Sheriff Miller. The unfortunate man was engaged rather extensively in bee culture and he is believed to have become mentally deranged on the subject of bees and his talk has been disjointed and very much at random.—Columbus Republican.

RED, ITCHING SKIN

Likely to Be First Stage of Eczema—What to Do.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

When the skin of face or body feels hot, drawn and irritable, it is likely to break out with small watery pimples accompanied by violent itching. This is one form of eczema, and should be attended to at once.

In all our experience we have never found anything to give such uniformly good results in skin troubles and eruptions, whether acute or chronic, as our new skin remedy, Saxon Salve.

Besides allaying the frightful itching almost as soon as applied, it sinks into the skin like water into a sponge and thus completely envelops the diseased portion with its powerful healing and soothing ingredients. Improvement is seen in a very short time, and the skin is rendered soft and smooth again.

We cheerfully give back your money if Saxon Salve is not satisfactory. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Pamphlets on Pastry Flour.

Charles A. Greathouse, Superintendent of public instruction in Indiana has issued warnings to school teachers against the use of certain pamphlets in text book form, found in some of the schools in which domestic economy is taught, and which say in effect that only wheat grown in the Northwest, known as spring wheat, makes flour fit for use in pastries.

He says: "These publications also state that wheat grown in this section of the country is unfit for pastry uses, but unwarranted by scientific experiments. Such misstatements are detrimental to our agricultural interests, and I advise teachers of Indiana schools to be on the lookout and prevent the use of such publications, which are evidently circulated for the sole purpose of boosting the wheat lands of the northwest and flour made from wheat grown there. Scientific analysis of the wheat produced in Indiana last year demonstrated beyond any question that wheat raised in this state is not excelled by any produced elsewhere. I object to any big interest misrepresenting the facts to enlarge their own business." Mr. Greathouse says he does not know who is responsible for the pamphlets.

POLICE ALARM SYSTEM

Considered By Officials and Merchants Monday Evening.

A meeting was held Monday evening in U. F. Lewis' office to consider the proposition made by the Merchants' Association to the council for the establishment in the business section of the city of a police alarm system similar to the Gamewell system in the larger cities. Misch, Davison and Sherman Day, the special committee from the council, Marshal Abell, Engineer Douglas, N. Kaufman, Frank Teekemeyer and Charles Abell the special committee from the Merchants' Association and numbers of other members of the latter organization were present and participated in the discussion. It was reported that the company owning the phones would install them and the cost thereafter for rental and maintenance and the pay of special operator at telephone office to keep register of the police calls would be $42.50 a month. The proposition is for the city and the association to make some kind of division of this cost. The plan is to install 25 phones. The matter will come up for consideration at the council meeting Thursday night.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR WATCH

A WATCH is a delicate piece of machinery. It calls for less attention than most machinery, but must be cleaned and oiled occasionally to keep perfect time.

With proper care a Waltham Watch will keep perfect time for a lifetime. It will pay you well to let us clean your watch every 12 or 18 months.
